He also made the decision to become the vice-president of the National Capital Region Chapter. Last week, the Presidential Election Commission (PEC) of the Philippines has announced the nominations of candidates for the Pangasinan gubernatorial elections in 2019. Lieutenant Governor Amado Espino was the first incumbent to announce his candidacy for next year's elections in the province. He is the most popular incumbent in the list of candidates for governor who are in the running. Espino has 12 years of experience in public service. He served as acting governor of the province from 2010 until 2013. Previously, Espino served as secretary of the Department of Agriculture. As a government official, he also held the positions of acting general superintendent and vice mayor of the City of Pangasinan. He said that the strong vision of Governor Rodolfo Fariñas and his advocacy for this year's celebration of the Philippines' 125th anniversary helped the cause of the incumbent. Moreover, Espino also cited his position as a member of the Bayanihan Donor Circle that allowed the province to be an active part of the 2016 celebrations in Baguio City. 1
